There are at least three groups of UFOlogy, with many subgroups. Each has a research spectrum different, as well as different sets of theories and hypotheses:

1. The possibility of extraterrestrial life, genetic and cultural interventions on Earth, which may include communication protocols, contact experiences and reverse engineering of technologies, following the Extraterrestrial Hypotheses (ETH);
2. Another, which is represented by civil researchers and scientific researchers in UFOlogy, studies the anthropological experience behind the millions of known cases, and also faces the highly interesting, but unresolved unknown phenomenon, affecting the witnesses' consciousness, the environmental context and the spatio-temporal field of information. Some of this second group, may The international academic and civil UFO community, and lean towards the Outer Hypothesis, Interdimensional Hypothesis, or superintelligence hypothesis;
3. A third is a strictly military UFO that posits that foreign nations can covertly possessing unacknowledged unconventional technologies that can be used to future wargame scenarios, and that have exotic technology that exhibits the behavior of many UFOs.

Naturally, a combination of factors always remains open to consideration, as accumulate evidence.

As the topic of UFOs is growing in cultural popularity (and too often it is reduced and characterized as "alien visitors" and science fiction "alien spaceships"), on the other hand, the disclosure of the UAP by the US Department of Defense intelligence could become an important consideration for mass public reception of general phenomena associated with UFOs in general.

Consequently, the International Academic and Civil UFO Community has the duty to express its research findings, transmit your positions, research criteria and research data from this enigmatic phenomenon, in order to coordinate the coherent integration of the results in the discourses scientific and related transdisciplinary fields.

A document with all the written statements of the participants will be made available to journalists and the public. Each metropolitan Press Conference will then proceed to respond to the journalists present at their location, in their own language. After thirty minutes, the organizers in Montreal will visit the other metropolitan Press Conferences to allow international journalists to interact with participants in other countries. The participants, who will not be able to be in one of the Press Conferences, will be able to answer the journalists from their home (by Zoom). The distribution and coordination of the online main event will be in charge of Steve Zuniga (Technical Director of GARPAN), who will be in our office in Quebec City, broadcasting through two high-speed connections.
